

Mill and Elevator Corridor

One thing which impresses the traveler arriving by almost any of the railroads entering the city, is the number and the vast size of the grain elevators. To form a better idea of their number one must sweep the horizon from some of the high buildings. The elevators rise in every direction as somber monuments from some of the high buildings.

Hudson's Dictionary of Minneapolis, 1905

Seven Elevator and Mill Complexes : ca. 1902-1930

Minnehaha
1901

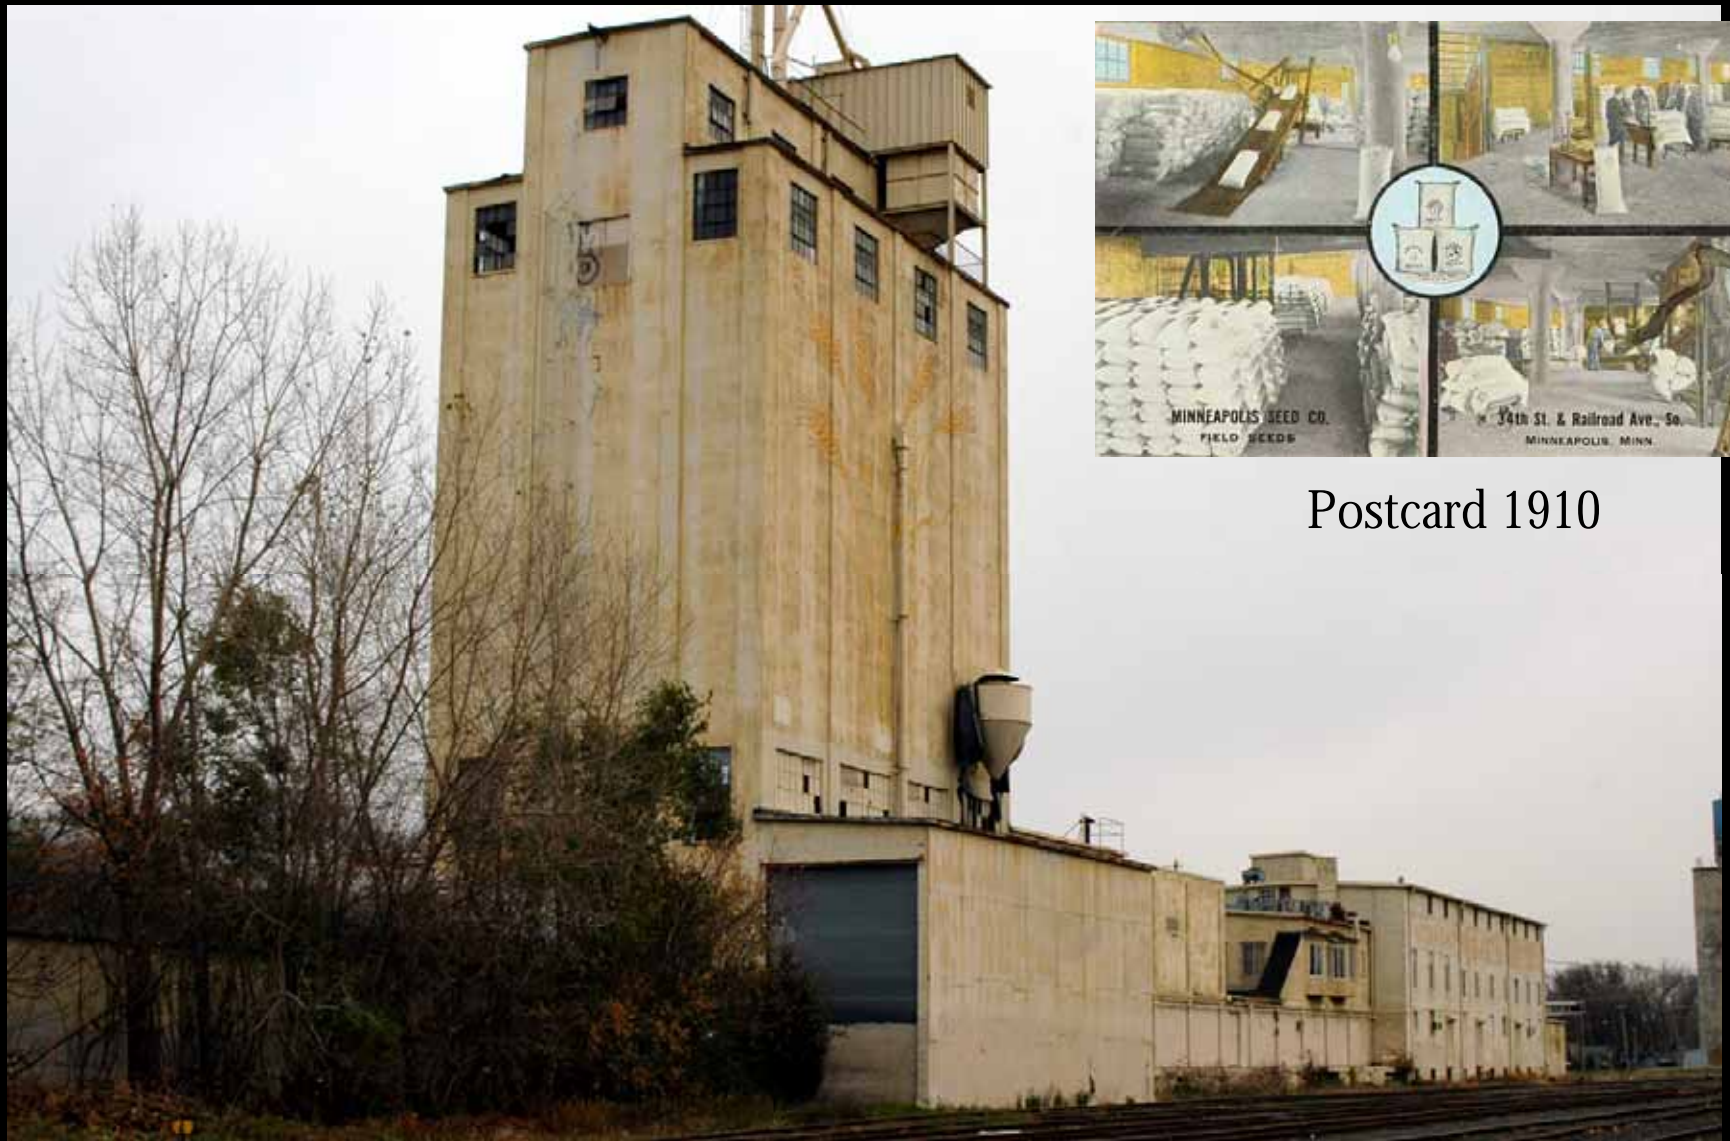

State Testing Mill
ca. 1917

Schreiber (at left)
ca. 1921

Monarch
1901

Postcard 1910

Cargill-Minneapolis Seed Co.

Elevator T