

Priority CARE Project Strategies

Summary ranking of Community Strategies to address CARE-Risks based on 101 community responses. Each column shows the priority that respondents gave to that strategy – on a range from very low, low, medium, high, very high. The priority level is based on the aggregate of community responses to the Community Priority Questionnaire.

Strategies to Address Community Risks	All Responses ^	East Phillips	Longfellow
Make it safer and easier to walk and bike to places in the neighborhood.	Very High	Very High	Very High
Support partnerships to improve jobs skills, train workers, and create learning opportunities for all.	Very High	Very High	Very High
Reduce children’s exposure to secondhand smoke.	High	High	Very High
Improve access to healthy, affordable food through gardens, farmers markets, and urban farms.	High	High	High
Work with business and industry to reduce local air pollutants.	High	High	Medium
Support community efforts to promote good nutrition and healthy food.	Medium	Medium	Low
Reduce air pollution from cars and trucks, lawnmowers, wood fires, etc.	Medium	High	Low
Reduce chemical use in homes and businesses and cut down on improper disposal of hazardous waste.	Medium	Medium	Medium
Support local food production to grow the local economy.	Medium	Medium	Medium
Encourage people and businesses to buy locally.	Low	Low	High
Reduce stormwater runoff to rivers, lakes, and streams.	Low	Low	Low
Support efforts to reduce asthma triggers in the home.	Low	Low	Low
Encourage yard-care practices to minimize pesticides and reduce environmental impacts.	Low	Very Low	Medium
Plant more trees	Very Low	Medium	Very Low